CORLISS ON THE CABLE

Addressed the House in Behalf of the Government Project.

SAN FRANCISCO TO MANILA

He Emphasized Importance of the United States Operating Its Own Lines.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The house today unanimously adopted a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States for the election of senators by direct popular vote. There was no demand for time to debate the resolution. This is the fourth time the house has adopted a similar resolution.

Two bills of general importance were passed by the house today, the remainder of the time being devoted to minor business. One was a senate bill to provide for the payment of the claims of confederate officers and soldiers whose horses, side-arms and baggage were taken from them by union soldiers contrary to the terms of the surrender of Lee and Johnston's armies. The amount to be paid under the bill was limited to $50,000. The other bill was to confer on the Spanish claims commission authority to send for persons and papers and to punish for contempt.

Mr. Corliss (Rep., Mich.) who is the author of a bill to provide for the laying of a government cable from San Francisco to Manila, addressed the house on the cable project. He was opposed, he said, to congress yielding concessions to private cable monopolies, notably the Commercial Cable company controlled by the Mackay-Bennett forces, and dwelt emphatically on the importance of the United States operating its own cable lines.

"The right to construct cable lines," he said, "is an inherent right of the nation. No one has a right to lay a cable without permission of congress."

He enumerated the special acts under which congress had authorized private companies to lay cables, to show that they contained no provision of a general character on the subject, and said the scope of such legislation had been positively determined by the department of justice which, he said, held that the general permission to public lines afforded by congress applied only to interior lines of telegraph with points of communication within the United States and not to ocean cables.

"Congress," he said, "has assumed the right to control the construction and operation of cable lines in Alaska. Is it not far more important for the maintenance of peace and the welfare of our people to control cable communication with Hawaii, the Philippines and other islands in the Pacific?"

Mr. Corliss cited precedents to show that the right to control cables was vested in congress and said that in the case of the United States versus the French Cable company, Judge Lacombe decided that without the consent of the general government, no one, alien or native, has any right to establish a physical connection between the shores of this country and that of any foreign nation.

"The defendant in this case," he said, "was one of the allied companies controlled by the Commercial Cable company now seeking again to steal upon our shores with a cable for the purpose of establishing a foreign cable monopoly."

Mr. Corliss referred to a cable dispatch which John Mackay had sent to the secretary of state in August, 1901, proposing to lay and operate submarine cables from California to the Philippines by way of the Hawaiian islands. In comparing the conditions laid down by Grant and Blaine and those offered by the Commercial Cable company, Mr. Corliss said the company evaded the express stipulation that the company should not receive from any foreign government such privileges as would prevent the establishment and operation of the cable of an American company in a competitive jurisdiction and by the insertion of a carefully worded clause sought to disregard the provision expressly forbidding consolidation with any other company for the purpose of regulating rates. Mr. Corliss said such surreptitious action was employed by the Comercial Cable company solely in behalf of its English stockholders, in whose interests they made application to lay a cable.

Mr. Corliss said that Mr. Mackay called on the president and urged approval of this position, but the president, following the precedents of his predecessors, refused to grant permission, embodying the subject in his message to congress.

"And yet, in defiance of the law," concluded Mr. Corliss, "this American company brazenly assumes the audacity of an English monopolist and proposes to lay and operate the Pacific cable without authority from the government of the United States. When the committee recently authorized a favorable report on the cable measure, this cable monopolist, recognizing the weakness of his position but hoping to overcome the effect of such report, on the 8th day of February filed with the attorney general a written communication submitting certain proposals which is simply another subterfuge through which the monopoly hopes to accomplish its purpose."

Mr. Corliss said this proposition embraced the same objectionable features as the other and declared that it was of no value whatever; that the secretary of the treasury could not bind the company by such contract. He charged that it was the purpose of the Commercial company to lay its cable to the Marshall islands and obtain from Germany a subsidy and cave the important naval station established by our government on the island of Guam without protection.

The senate bill to pay the claims of artillery and cavalry officers and private soldiers of the confederate army for horses, side-arms and baggage alleged to have been taken from them by federal troops in violation of the terms of the surrender of the confederate armies, was considered. After limiting the sum to be paid under the provisions of the bill to $50,000 it was passed.

When the committee on the election of president, vice president and representatives in congress was called, Mr. Corliss called up the joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide for the election of senators of the United States by popular vote. The resolution was passed without a dissenting vote.

At 4:45 the house adjourned.

MAY VOTE NEXT WEEK ON PHILIPPINE TARIFF

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 13.—While no definite agreement has been reached, a vote on the Philippine tariff bill in the senate seems to be in sight. It appears likely, judging from a discussion of the subject late in the day's session, that the vote may be had next week although the matter yet is involved in some uncertainty.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 13.—In his invocation at the opening of today's session of the senate the chaplain made feeling reference to the death of Senator Blackburn's son.

A concurrent resolution was agreed to directing the secretary of war to report whether there is danger of the Mississippi cutting through the space between that river and the St. Francis river near Walnut Bend, Ark., and if such danger exists to present an estimate of cost to avert the danger.

Mr. McEnery (Lab.) offered a resolution which was adopted directing the secretary of war to inform the senate what railroads are being built in Cuba, by whom they are being built and under what authority of law.

Another resolution offered by Mr. Gallinger was adopted directing the postmaster-general to send to the senate a list of persons employed in the division of rural free delivery at the time it was included in the classified service, whence they were appointed and whether they were subjected to an examination before they were placed in the classified service.

A bill was passed to vest in the Spanish treaty claims commission certain papers possessed by circuit and district courts of the United States.

Mr. Quarles (Wis.) made an effort to secure consideration of the census bill, but it was agreed that the bill should be considered tomorrow.

Discussion of the Philippine tariff bill was resumed, Mr. Teller continuing his speech. He presented clippings from newspapers, reciting instances of cruelties practiced by the American troops upon the Filipinos. He did not vouch, he said, for the accuracy of the reports and he disclaimed any intention to criticise the American army as a whole. He thought the private soldiers could not be blamed for such cruelties when men of culture and refinement attempted to justify on the plea of war, the cruel section law enacted and enforced in the Philippines. He urged in view of the memorial of the federal party presented to the senate yesterday, that this government announce a definite policy toward the Philippines and to say frankly what this government proposed ultimately to do with them.

Further along he said that much as he might sympathize with the Filipinos he could not bring himself to wish disaster to befall American arms. He expected to vote for the appropriation to support the army.

In response to an inquiry from Mr. Aldrich, Mr. Teller expressed the belief that the offer of statehood to the Filipinos would settle all difficulties between them and the United States. He added, however, that he did not want to proceed in that way. He would rather withdraw the army from the Philippines and let the inhabitants work out their own destiny than give the islands statehood. He did not think Americans and Asiatics could live together in the relations of statehood without serious friction. Mr. Teller said that as a solution of the Philippine trouble he would send to the islands a force of able men to say to the Filipinos that they should have the kind of government they want, except that they could not become citizens of the United States. He urged that the commission say to them that they need not maintain an army or a navy, but that the United States would protect them from foreign invasion. "It would be a protectorate," became apply to the Philippines," said Mr. Teller, "and I believe it would be satisfactory to the Filipinos."

Mr. Teller said that in his judgment the day would come when the United States would clash with some Asiatic or European nation in the far eastern seas. Then the Philippine islands, held as they are now would be a source of weakness to this country. If treated by the United States as they ought to be the Filipinos at that time would be a source of strength to the government.

Mr. Mitchell (Ore.) addressed the senate in support of his amendment to the pending bill to place certain articles entering the United States from the Philippines on the free list; to levy a tariff of 50 per cent. of the Dingley rates upon articles not admitted to the free list; and to eliminate that portion of section 3 of the bill which provides that the same tonnage tax shall be levied on all vessels coming from our insular possessions as is levied on vessels coming from foreign countries.

Mr. Mitchell denied that it was either expedient or right to apply to our insular possessions the same rule in these respects as is applied to foreign countries. He maintained that congress should differentiate in favor of the insular possessions.

Referring to the proposition to grant trade concessions to Cuba, Mr. Mitchell said:

"That we have as a nation given a pledge that a stable government shall be established and maintained in Cuba is conceded. This must be done and this is being done. But this pledge does not, I admit, impose upon us a duty to make trade concessions to the planters and producers of Cuba which will militate materially against the planters, agriculturists and producers of our own country. Such a concession is not an obligation resting upon us, either expressly or by implication. Of course, if a reciprocity arrangement can be made with Cuba which will be to the advantage of our people or which will not seriously affect adversely any American interest or American labor and which may be of benefit to Cuban interests, then by all means let us have it."

Continuing Mr. Mitchell said:

"I submit further that if the policy enforced in the last congress of permitting the products of Puerto Rico to come into the United States at 85 per cent. reduction of the rates of duty imposed by the Dingley act and later on entirely free, and this all largely in the interest of the trade and commerce of the people of the Atlantic states, as well as of the people of Puerto Rico, then upon what principle of right or justice or equity must the people of the Pacific states pay the same rates on Philippine products coming into this country that are imposed by the Dingley act? Why impose one rule on our insular possess on in the Atlantic ocean and another on our possessions in the Pacific ocean? What occult force, if any, is operating on the congress of United States and this, too, without congress seemingly being conscious of the fact which seems to compel the nation's parliament to arrive at such absolutely contradictory conclusions?"

"We should give to the Philippines," he urged, "concessions in trade which will instill into their minds encouragement, confidence and hope, which will cause them to realize the wide difference between the iron and hurtful rule of the Spaniard and the beneficent and helpful rule of the Americans."

Further along he said:

"Let congress strike out boldly against the manufacturing industries which have helped to gigantic trusts and which have brought and are bringing to their promoters princely individual wealth, but let congress hesitate to strike down in its infancy an agricultural industry like that of the sugar beet. The sugar trust, the steel trust and certain other formidable combinations that might be mentioned are able to stand alone. The beet sugar industry is not. The former does not need protection, the latter does."

Referring to the argument that the United States was bound to accord to all nations the right to deal with the Filipinos on the same basis as that enjoyed by Americans, Mr. Mitchell said:

"An open door in the orient is all well enough, but if the price of it is to be the surrender of a principle, of the right to exercise the very highest prerogatives attaching to us as an independent sovereign power, then that door had better be forever closed."

He thought our capacity to hold our share of the oriental trade depended mainly upon our ability to control the great transportation lines.

"Our merchant marine," he declared, "must be lifted from its present insignificance as a factor in the carrying trade of the world and we as a nation must rise paramount and take our position as a commercial nation in the front rank of those controlling the world's transportation."

When Mr. Mitchell concluded his speech an effort was made by Mr. Lodge in charge of the pending bill, to reach an agreement on a time when a final vote upon all amendments and the measure itself should be taken. In the course of the brief discussion of the matter, it was developed several senators on the Democratic side of the chamber desired still to speak and that Mr. Spooner and Mr. Wellington also would speak on the bill.

Mr. Rawlins thought perhaps an agreement for a final vote next week might be made, but he did not commit the minority to such an agreement.

A bill to regulate the practice in the United States courts as to appeals and writs of error, was passed.

The senate then, at 4:30, went into executive session and soon afterward adjourned.

WASHINGTON TOPICS OF INTEREST TO COLORADO

Special to the Gazette.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—The appropriation for the maintenance of the Grand Junction Indian school was today struck from the bill which will be reported to the house on a day or so. The committee, it is said, took this action on account of difficulties between Indian officials and the authorities of Grand Junction, the latter having insisted on charging a yearly rental for connection of the sewerage system of the school with that of the city. Senator Teller, however, will have the appropriation inserted again when the bill is brought up in the senate.

Representative Bell today sent before the house resolutions passed by the chamber of commerce of Colorado Springs, similar to those sent before the senate by senator Teller, asking for an amendment of the interstate commerce act so as to give the commission jurisdiction over the present existing discriminations in rate-making, and on the ground that the recent decisions establish discriminations which the interstate commerce act was the result of attempting to eliminate. The resolutions of the chamber of commerce also request that the commission be given power to compel the production of books and papers by the railroads, and that the commission be given power to enforce its decisions without the necessity of bringing suit in the courts to compel obedience to the commission's decisions.

Representative Bell today introduced a bill to amend the act to provide a government for the Territory of Oklahoma, approved May 2, 1890, so as to provide that persons who have taken up homestead lands in said territory may be permitted to commute their entries under the provisions of the act of congress approved March 3, 1891, upon proof that they have complied with the laws for a period of not less than one year from the date of their entries, and that they have since said date resided upon and cultivated said lands.

MINISTRY IN DANGER

[illegible] Roosevelt Has Returned to Washington—[illegible] the Day.

By Associated Press.

Groton, Mass., Feb. 13.—The most eventful day at the Groton school since Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., became ill closed with the departure of President Roosevelt for Washington late this afternoon. Before that the president in the homely phrase, "Ted has improved with surprising strides that I am sure he is out of the woods," had told to the world of the load lifted from his mind.

The day was full of happiness for the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and indeed for all who were at the infirmary or near the school grounds. The first report from the bedside of young Roosevelt showed that he had passed a good night. After the morning consultation of Doctors Lambert and Warren it was announced that the boy's condition was progressing favorably. The report said that the lungs were clearing well although the patient was still in the second stage of pleuro-pneumonia, known to medical men as the stage of exudation.

Later in the day Dr. Warren stated that the patient's temperature, respiration and pulse were normal, a decided contrast to his condition the past few days. The boy rested well all day, although his pulse was somewhat accelerated for a short period this afternoon because of the departure of his father.

The president passed a very quiet day. This morning after visiting his son he spent most of the time at the Gardner house on transacting official business. Before lunch he called on the other patients, the Gammel and Potter boys, and cheered them up with his kindly greetings. Then he proceeded to the Powers cottage and held a brief interview with the newspaper men who had that place for their headquarters. The president feelingly thanked them for a gift of flowers to Mrs. Roosevelt and for their courtesy to him and his family during the trying days that have so happily ended. The remainder of his stay was with Mrs. Roosevelt and his son. At 4:15 p. m. the president, accompanied by Mr. Cortelyou, Mr. Barnes, the executive clerk, Principal Peabody of the school and two secret service officers, left in a carriage for Groton village station. A special train was in readiness to take the party to Worcester. Many persons had gathered at the station and in response to their cheers the president doffed his hat. He also bade farewell to the newspaper men grouped at the platform. At 4:30 the train left.

Mrs. Roosevelt kept indoors nearly all day, her only taste of the cool, bracing air being during her walk from the Gardner house to the infirmary. She has borne up well under the strain. She will be relieved somewhat during the next few days by Miss Alice Roosevelt, who, the president said, would leave Washington tomorrow for Groton. He also said that Mrs. Roosevelt hoped to remove Theodore, Jr., to the White house within 10 days, adding that the boy would return to Groton to complete his course as soon as his health will permit.

No visitors called at the school during the day. This evening Dr. Peabody, chairman of the faculty called at the Powers cottage and assured the newspaper men that the patient was holding his own, confirming earlier reports by saying that his pulse, respiration and temperature were normal. The indications also were for a good night.

At 11 o'clock tonight the boy was sleeping quietly and at midnight the sick room was in darkness. It was announced tonight that no further bulletins would be issued unless there is an unfavorable change in the patient's condition.

MR. BALFOUR'S WARM GREETING TO PRESIDENT

By Associated Press.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 13.—A crowd that blocked the entire platform in the union station awaited the arrival of President Roosevelt. When the train pulled in at 7:27 the cheering brought the chief executive to the rear platform. He thanked the people for the interest they had shown in him and announced that his son was on the road to recovery. With his remarks was a new wave of cheers came from the crowd.

The run from Worcester was uneventful, only two short stops being made at crossings, until Pawtucket was reached. Here a crowd of people had assembled and in answer to enthusiastic calls for a speech the president came to the rear platform and spoke a word of greeting.

At Pawtucket the president bowed in acknowledgement of the acclaim as the train made only a short stop. Providence was reached at 7:37, and the private car was shifted to a spur track in the Union station, where it remained until the arrival at 8:07 of the federal express from Boston bound for Washington.

While the car was set off on the siding a crowd congregated about it, frequently calling for the president, who did not, however, appear. A number of persons succeeded in getting through the lines of officers to the car and were admitted to the president's drawing room.

At 8:11, the car being attached, the train pulled out.

Just as the president came to the rear platform he made good-bye to the crowd. He was cheered while the train passed through the entire length of the station.

MISS ALICE ROOSEVELT WILL GO TO BOSTON

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president, will leave here tomorrow afternoon for Groton, Mass., where her brother is lying ill of pneumonia. The details of the trip will not be arranged until after the president's arrival here at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow. It is thought, however, that she will take the through Pennsylvania train to Boston. She will be accompanied by a maid.

Fire threatened the destruction of the residence of Mrs. M. L. De Coursey, 136 North Cascade avenue, yesterday morning.

Teachers of the public schools will have a general teachers' meeting at the High school auditorium this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

GENERAL

Former Governor Robert B. Lindsay of Alabama, aged 78 years, died yesterday after a short illness. He was the first governor of Alabama after the reconstruction period. His induction into office was resisted by his predecessor, Governor William M. Smith, and the contest over the office induced one of the most exciting periods in the history of Alabama.

MINING

The mining stock market yesterday showed good activity in the preferred list but little strength. In the mines list El Paso recovered to 61 and Isabella to 24. Calera dropped off a cent to 35 and Portland was a light trader at $2.60.

General Manager De LaVergne of the Isabella mine returned yesterday from an examination of the property and reports some surface improvements to be made, and the physical condition of the mine as satisfactory. Development work will be carried on cautiously.

The Golden Fleece mine near Lake City is preparing to make very heavy shipments of ore in the near future, and the management is anticipating an early resumption of dividends.

President Herring of the Des Moines company has just returned from an inspection of the property and reports good showings on the Bob Tail claim, where two veins carrying some values have been opened. A lease is to be executed at once on the Red Hen.

Lessee Kellum has had his lease on the Sedan ground extended to April, 1904, and, having secured a good backing of capital, will start in sinking an additional 50 feet at once and carry on thorough developments.

GREAT BRITAIN NOT BOUND ON JAPANESE AGREEMENT

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The Japanese minister, Mr. Takhira, has received the following cablegram from Tokio:

"The Anglo-Japanese agreement was announced on the 12th inst. in the house of peers by Genera. Viscount Katsura, minister president, and in the house of representatives by Mr. Komura, minister for foreign affairs, with the following explanations:

"In view of the actual situation in the far east and the interests of the empire involved therein and recognizing the reciprocality of establishing close and confidential relations with friendly powers having common interests with our own country, the imperial government entered into negotiations with the British government last year for the purpose of attaining that end. The two governments having been happily brought into complete accord upon the subject after extended negotiations and the imperial government having obtained his majesty's sanction, instructed their plenipotentiary to sign with the British plenipotentiary at London on the 30th of January last an agreement having the above objects in view.

"This agreement is entirely pacific in purpose, and has no other object than the proper safe guarding of the interests of the neighboring empires of China and Korea.

"Considering that the principles of territorial integrity and the open door have been voluntarily declared and approved by all of the powers concerned, it is our belief that the present agreement will not be regarded in an unfavorable light by any of the powers."

It was stated at the Russian embassy that the purposes set forth in the British-Japanese agreement as to the preservation of the integrity of the Chinese empire are in harmony with those of the Russian government which has consistently contended for that principle.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Chamber of Commerce Opposes Amendment—Cases Against Gamblers Dismissed.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Cripple Creek, Feb. 13.—The committee on legislation of the chamber of commerce has drawn up a resolution opposing the Bucklin single tax amendment to the state's constitution. This resolution, which has been adopted by the board of directors of the chamber, is as follows:

"Resolved, That this chamber regards the so-called Bucklin amendment at at best a vague theory, untried in this country, and intended to revolutionize the system of taxation in force at present, which is a time, under the unfortunate condition of the finances of the state, that the people cannot afford to try such experiments.

"We do not believe that taxation could be made equal and fair to all under said amendment. We believe that the application of the proposed system would especially be illy adapted to the best interests of Teller county, where our wealth of property is very largely of real estate of very high value. We are opposed to the said Bucklin amendment and respectfully request our senators and representatives to favor its repeal." The resolution is signed by Robert Graham and Frank J. Hangs, two members of the committee on legislation. E. F. Montgomery, the other member of this committee, who is speaker of the house at the state legislature, was absent when it was passed.

The directors of the chamber of commerce have asked the commercial bodies of Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo to adopt resolutions favoring a department of mines with an officer in the president's cabinet.

The city of Goldfield in the district court today petitioned for a temporary writ of injunction to restrain J. C. Hambaugh, treasurer of Goldfield, from paying warrants alleged to be illegal. The complaint recites that on July 10, 1899, the trustees of the town attempted to enter into a contract with W. H. Mitchell, and undertook to pay Mr. Mitchell $13,000 on a contract for the erection of water works. On August 19, 1899, as is alleged, the mayor and clerk attempted to issue to Mr. Mitchell pretended warrants for this amount, drawing interest at the rate of 6 per cent, although the contract for the water works was not submitted to a vote of the taxpayers. The mayor and clerk attempted to draw the warrants from the water funds. The city further alleges that the defendant has stated that he will pay the warrants. The city of Goldfield asks that the warrants be declared null and void and that upon final hearing the temporary writ of injunction against the treasurer be made permanent.

A jury in the district court at 5 o'clock tonight brought in a verdict finding Clara Tucker, a negress, guilty of assault with intent to kill George Garrett of Goldfield. Garrett claimed that on the night of July 7 last, he was passing the woman's place on Myers avenue when the woman asked him to come in and buy some drinks. He showed some money and, as Garrett alleges, the woman attempted to take it away from him. In the struggle Garrett was cut with a razor and several stitches were taken in the wound in his back. The negress appeared in court dressed to kill and the court room was filled all during the day with colored people anxious to hear the testimony. When the verdict was brought in she was taken to the county jail.

A. J. Hammerten and W. Riddle were found guilty in the district court today of breaking the state law by selling beef without exhibiting the hides. The other two defendants in the case, T. W. Vickers and Robert Roberts, were found not guilty on this charge. According to the testimony submitted, the four men are residents of El Paso county where they engage in ranching. They brought dressed beef to Goldfield and peddled it from a wagon to the residents of that city. The butchers of Goldfield were partially instrumental in starting the prosecution. Hammerton and Riddle are in the county jail.

Max Charon filed a petition in the county court today to be appointed administrator of the estate of the late Lewis G. Percheron, the well-known chef, who died in the hospital at Denver on the 11th inst. The deceased was the owner of the City of Paris lode.

The Mineral Point G. M. Co. has given a deed of trust to the public trustee for the use of Sarah E. Rhodes, covering the entire property of this company. The amount of money involved is $1,300 with interest at 10 per cent, due June 5, 1902. Trust deed is given by M. J. Swisher, president of the company, and L. J. Mountz, secretary. The property of the company consists of the Mineral Point, Sport, Pamitella lodes on Galena hill, the Mattie Z. and Rebecca No. 2 lodes on Straub mountain; the Colorado lodes. The trust deed is given by M. J. Swisher, president of the company, and L. J. Nos. 1 to 5 inclusive, on Signal hill.

Sheriff Robertson today levied on a 14-32 interest in the Hiawatha lode No. 6196 on Beacon hill to satisfy judgment in the case of John A. Hull vs. Nora Foley.

A location certificate was filed today by J. W. Wright et al. for the Belle B. lode.

Among the deeds filed for record today were the following: A. H. Whitmore, G. C. Blakey and C. F. Potter to W. S. Tarbell, trustee, the Elizabeth Stephenson lode on Ironclad hill, $650; the Maude M. Cons. M. Co. to the Gold Dollar Cons. M. Co., part of the N. W. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 30, township 15, south of range 69, west of the sixth principal meridian, $1; J. W. Dalton to E. M. Carr, lots 3 and 4 in block 25, Freeman Placer, $100; Mary E. Peart to Elizabeth Davisson, lot 5, block A, Granite addition to Victor, $900.

The cases against the gamblers charged with assaulting two agents of the Law and Order league were continued today in Justice Harrington's court until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Emile B. Smith, the negro who escaped from the county jail yesterday, has not yet been captured. It is reported that he left the camp warmly clothed by way of Florissant.

J. C. Johnston, who is interested in the Kittie Wells and Hard Carbonate claims, has returned from the Alaska gold fields, where he met with quite a little success. Mr. Johnston's family is now in Seattle, a city which he considers to have a very bright future. Mr. Johnston expects to leave for Alaska in the spring.

Miss Jessie Gunnell of Colorado Springs and Miss Cole Nichols of Joplin, Mo., are visiting in the city and are stopping at the National.

Out-of-town arrivals at the National today were: S. J. Henry and A. C. Ridgway of Colorado Springs; F. H. Roe, Ed Whitman, W. C. McFarland, P. H. Clifford and D. Langdell of Denver; Sam P. Woolard of Wichita; E. D. Paver of St. Paul; W. W. Wattou of Chicago; O. E. Cuming of New York; B. A. Knopp of Grand Rapids, and R. E. Grimshaw and wife of Deadwood, S. D.

VICTOR NEWS NOTES FROM VICTOR

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Victor, Feb. 13.—Dan Dougherty was arrested today upon a warrant sworn out by John Duckett, charging Dougherty with assault with a deadly weapon. The bond was placed at $100 and Dougherty will have his hearing tomorrow evening at 6:30 o'clock in Justice Corbin's court. Both men were recently fined in the police court for disturbing the peace. A few days ago they entered into a fight on Alamo street, in which Duckett alleges Dougherty was the aggressor, pounding him with a stone and biting his finger. Duckett may lose his hand as a result of blood poisoning.

The Rockland G. M. Co., recently incorporated under the laws of Maine, will commence active operations on its 30 acres of ground on the southeast slope of Little Bull. Andrew Cochran of this city is president of this company; William Cochran, also of Victor, vice president, and F. H. Swayne of Lynn, Mass., secretary. It is stated that a 16-foot hole on the property there is a three-foot body of ore exposed that assays from $8 to $22 to the ton.

The Mint saloon on Third street was attached today by the Muehlhausen Liquor company for debts amounting to $299. The saloon has been conducted for some time past by Tim Kohane. Mr. Kohane has left this district to all appearances, owing quite a little money. There is a mortgage on the saloon fixtures and furniture, held by A. Freeman & Co. of Denver.

This evening at the Presbyterian church an excellent concert was given under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. The attendance was large and quite a neat sum was realized to be applied to the piano fund.

A heavy snow fell all over the camp this afternoon, but tonight the weather is clear and cold. The snow is welcomed by the people of the district, as the want for some time past has been very bad.

The force at the Gold Coin mine is again being increased, between 75 and 100 of the men who were recently laid off, being again at work. The force at the mine was decreased because it was necessary to curtail production because of the clean-up at the Economic mill.

Thomas Powell has returned from a business trip to Denver.

The compressor at the Hull City placer broke down today and the men were temporarily laid off. It is expected that the mine will secure power from the LaBella plant at Goldfield tomorrow and resume operations.

ACTIVITY AT THE DEBEQUE FIELD

Special to the Gazette.

Debeque, Feb. 13.—The drill in the well of the Debeque Oil & Development company made 20 feet today, reaching a depth of 835 feet tonight. At this point the drill is in very pretty sand, it being hard and gritty.

Salt water is pouring out of the well of the Buckeye company from a depth of something more than 300 feet. Drilling continues, the plan being to develop any more salt springs that may be encountered before casing off.

Many strangers were seen on the streets of Debeque today. Arrangements for the organization of new companies are being made and the work of securing the necessary papers for the perfecting of companies already organized is proceeding rapidly. The location of oil placer claims continues and at the present time these locations extend for a distance of 10 miles in every direction from Debeque the center of the oil excitement.

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

Mustang Oil & Mining Co. Incorporated—The Estate of the Mule.

Pueblo Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Pueblo, Feb. 13.—A certificate of incorporat on of the Mustang Oil & Mining Co. was filed with the county clerk today. J. W. Narron, W. T. Fairfax and P. Bonser are named as the incorporators. The capital stock is placed at $200,000 in non-assessable shares, at $1 each. Pueblo and Huerfano counties will be the field for the business. The main office will be located in this city.

Applications for patents on the Lavonnie lode mining claim, located in the Cripple Creek district, was filed in the U. S. land office this morning by S. K. Thorman.

Antonio Papa, on trial for the murder of J. Martinez, was a strong witness in his own behalf this morning. As soon as court opened the prosecution announced that their evidence was all in and the defense called the accused man to the stand. To the questions of his counsel, Papa gave quick and clear answers.

The enlarging of the Hotel Maine to almost three times its present dimensions is now assured. It is said by insiders that the entire space from the present side to the corner of Seventh street will be built upon this spring, including that at present occupied by the Christian Science church. The entire building will be four stories high, with basements under all, and will contain about 300 rooms, besides other necessary and spacious apartments.

The predicted blizzard commenced to reach this city at 2:30 this afternoon. A heavy snow fell this evening. This is the first heavy snow Pueblo has had this winter.

J. A. Clements of Denver was in the city today on business.

C. F. Color of Chicago was in this city today. It is thought that Mr. Color will be a Pueblo merchant in the near future.

L. W. Smith, the well-known stock broker, returned last night from a visit to the Boulder oil fields. He is confident that strikes will be made in Pueblo county if the work is pushed with the same vigor that was used in Boulder.

It is rumored that the Rio Grande and American Smelting & Refining company will aid the city financially in building the viaduct across the Rio Grande tracks at Mesa avenue.

A large barn located at No. 1407 West Eighth street, belonging to Charles Kole, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. It is thought that sparks from a Santa Fe freight train caused the fire. The loss was $1,000.

The funeral of Joe Garrett will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the undertaking parlors of McMahon & Collier.

Miss Etta Wilson will entertain a large number of her friends at her home on West Fifteenth street tomorrow evening.

ORIENTAL COMMENTS ON THE NEW ALLIANCE

By Associated Press.

Peking, Feb. 13.—The Anglo-Japanese alliance became generally known here today and has created a profound sensation. Those British and Japanese residents of Peking whose opinions are worthy of consideration believe the alliance insures peace and will effectually check the dismemberment schemes of the other powers.

The chief objection raised by the diplomats of opposing interests is found in the clause of the alliance which contemplates possible intervention in the event of internal disturbances in China or Korea. These diplomats are telling the Chinese officials that the new treaty amounts to attempt to establish an Anglo-Japanese protectorate which threatens China's independence. Chinese officials, including Prince Ching, president of the foreign office, profess hearty approval of the treaty.

Prince Ching has announced that he will not further discuss the Russo-Chinese bank agreement with the Russian agents.

The Chinese foreign office gave the customary New Year luncheon today to the diplomats here. Prince Ching presided at the table. Baron Czikann von Wahlburg, the Austrian minister, sat on the right of Prince Ching, while Mr. Conger, the American representative, occupied a seat on his left. The Austrian minister toasted the Chinese emperor while Mr. Conger toasted the Chinese officials. The toasts were responded to by Prince Ching.

By Associated Press.

Yokohama, Feb. 13.—The press here gives vent to unmixed pleasure at the conclusion of the agreement with Great Britain which secured for Japan admission to the comity of great nations. The press also recognizes that the agreement imposes heavy responsibilities and that Japan must not fall into the error of supposing that peace will be assured without further effort.

Several of the papers comment upon the extraordinary fact that the leading world power abandon its policy of splendid isolation openly to clasp hands with Japan. The Nichinichi Shimbun says that the union of the strongest military power in the east with the greatest naval power in the world constitutes an invincible force. The Asahi Shimbun, an important paper of Tokio, declares that the whole country acclaims the agreement which for the first time removes Korea beyond the dangerous contingencies involved in the evidences of Russia's willingness to sacrifice that country upon the altar of her great ambition.

New Militia Company Is Given Equipment

Uniforms and other equipment were distributed last night at the armory to the members of the new company I, Second regiment, Colorado National Guard. The uniforms are of the regulation pattern and color and have been in Colorado Springs for about a week. The rifles, cartridge belts and bayonets were received yesterday from headquarters at Denver. After the regular drill last night and the distribution of the equipment the members of the company discussed the arrangements for their first annual ball which is to be given at the Antlers, February 21.

The state furnished Springfield rifles for the use of the new company until the Krag-Jorgensens promised by the national government to the guard of Colorado are received. The Springfields given out last night are of the latest pattern.

Proposed Federation of Clubs for Women

Another meeting for the purpose of discussing a federation of woman's clubs will be held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the bar room of the Alamo hotel. This movement has been under consideration for some time, and the promoters say the time is ripe for the organization.

So far the societies that have voted to federate are the Monday Progress club, the Centennial club and the North End W. C. T. U. These societies have 150 members.

One of the women interested in the proposed federation said yesterday:

"It is understood among the members of the different organizations that the federation shall have an open department for the benefit of non-club members, many of whom have already expressed a desire to enter such an organization.

"It is well that this open department be thoroughly understood. Any non-club woman, or any individual member of a club which has not joined the federation, thus giving them the full benefit of all the general meetings, programs, discussions, lectures or whatsoever that body may decide to bring before its members.

"This will enable women who, through force of circumstances or lack of time, cannot do much active work, to come in touch with other club women of the city, show their interest in the progressive spirit of the times, and their willingness to lend a hand as far as they are able, to the philanthropic, civic, educational and social movements which this body may see fit to take up.

"This department will, of course, be unlimited as to membership, and two of the clubs which are now limited, have expressed their intention to open their doors to all those wishing to enter as soon as the organization is strong enough to maintain club rooms, which time it is hoped is not far distant. It is also hoped, that while the membership fees in other organizations of this kind, are anywhere from $1 to $10, that the annual fee of this association will not exceed $1."

A cordial invitation is extended to all women of Colorado Springs, who are in sympathy with the movement and wish to join, to come and assist in its organization on next Saturday.

Robinson Wins Oratorical Contest

The Colorado college oratorical contest was held in Perkins auditorium last night and first place was awarded to Don Robinson of the sophomore class, and second place to Sperry S. Packard, of the senior class.

The contest was of a more exciting nature than any held for several years. About 8 o'clock the college classes marched in to the seats assigned them and spent the next 15 minutes in giving yells for their contestant.

Professor Ritchie, the presiding officer, called the meeting to order and announced the first number on the program a vocal solo by Mr. Slack. The first speaker, DeWitt, '03, was then presented. He spoke on "Heroism, Past and Present." DeWitt had a good oration, easy delivery and excellent gesture. He drew a comparison between the heroism of the knights of old and the stoker of a modern gunboat.

The second speaker was Fern, '02. His oration on "From Superstition to Reason" showed excellent thought.

The Glee club sang severe selections, after which Packard, '02 spoke on "Martin Luther." The thought of this oration was excellent, showing careful preparation. His delivery was good.

The last oration—and the one that gained first place, was delivered by Don Robinson on "The Under Man." Robinson will be remembered as the flaxen-haired little half-back on last year's football team and his entering the contest was regarded by most of the college boys as a huge joke—but Robinson had not proceeded very far before he had convinced them of their error. His oration, based on Markham's "Man with the Hoe," abounded in interesting facts and axiomatic truths. His delivery was strong and his gestures excellent.

While the judges were conferring, the college orchestra under the direction of Prof. Gates, played several numbers, after which Prof. Ritchie announced the decision.

The winners of the contest will represent the college in the state oratorical contest which will be held in this city Friday night, February 21.

[illegible] CAUSED A BICYCLE [illegible]

C. H. Gamble was riding a bicycle along Pike's Peak avenue yesterday morning when a cog ran against the wheel, throwing the rider to the ground. Gamble was found to be seriously cut, and was carried into Dr. McDonnell's office, in the Barnes block. An examination disclosed the fact that the leg was broken near the hip.

The injured man was taken to his home, No. 217 East Lowell street.

MANITOU CASES [illegible] UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Bailey of Canon City, presided in the district court yesterday over the trial of the case of the town of Manitou against the First National bank. The suit is a dispute about the issuance of warrants. The trial was begun yesterday afternoon and Judge Bailey took the case under advisement. The attorneys will submit briefs.

The case of Vivette Jackson against the Newton Lumber company, a demand for $[illegible] damages, will be tried for trial this afternoon in the district court.

Dana Caused Arrest of Escaped Convict

The police of Colorado Springs were notified yesterday that the arrest of Edward Irving, an escaped convict, who was captured in Salt Lake City Monday, was caused by Postmaster L. C. Dana, who is spending a vacation there. Irving was serving a life sentence at Canon City for murder committed years ago, when he escaped. His escape occurred two years ago and last week Mr. Dana saw Irving in Salt Lake and recognized him. His arrest was the result.

The crime for which Irving was sentenced to life imprisonment was the alleged wanton killing of a Pueblo saloonkeeper. After the crime, Irving was arrested in Colorado Springs by Captain Dair and Detective Atkinson. Mr. Dana was chief of police of Colorado Springs at that time.

Two years ago Irving managed to sneak out of the penitentiary while religious services were being held in one of the corridors. No trace of him was afterwards found by the authorities.

Mr. Dana met Irving in Salt Lake one day last week and notified the police who arrested him. He acknowledged his identity. His young wife was with him when he was caught. He said he had been married after he escaped from the penitentiary and had been living an honest life. His wife did not know that he was a convict.

[illegible] CONTRACT.

First of the St. Louis World's Fair Exhibit Buildings to be Completed Next October.

St. Louis, Feb. 9.—The contract for the erection of the first of the big exhibit buildings of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, the Varied Industries building, has been let. The architects estimate cost of the structure was $730,000. The contract was awarded to the Roundtree Construction company of St. Louis for $620,000. The other bidders were: Dunnavant & Sense, $660,[illegible]; Gorton & Son, $694,700; W. A. Hennessy, $770,000; Smith & Eastman, $728,9[illegible]; Westlake Construction company, $777,000; Nicholas Powers, $827,000; J. Grafton & Son, $[illegible],704; Butler-Ryan company, $[illegible],000,000.

The building is one of the largest of the exposition group. Its dimensions are 525 by 1,200 feet. It is crowned by a tower some 400 feet high and is placed symmetrically in the picture with the Manufactures building of the same dimensions, crowned with a similar tower. The architects of the Varied Industries building are Van Brunt & Howe of Kansas City. The materials for the building are staff on the exterior and wood for the trusses and timbers. Even the frame of the tower is of timber. The only steel or iron in the structure are the steel tie rods, the bolts and the cast iron shoes at the bottom of the big uprights. Ten million feet of pine lumber and 750 tons of iron and steel will be used in its construction. The contractor is required to give a bond of one-third the contract price and must complete the building by October 1, 1903.

Contracts for fencing the grounds, sewering, repainting trees, for the mammoth power plant, have also been let and the contractors are now at work.

Plans and specifications for four more of the big buildings of the main structure of exposition will be ready to submit to contractors before the end of the month of February.

Jay Cooke, Financier, Philanthropist.

That the "American system" of Philadelphia is a truly practical, substantial, serviceable entity, rather than a mere blatant and barren ideality, is sufficiently attested by the fact that four of its citizens have financed four of the nation's wars.

It was the great unrewarded Robert Morris of Philadelphia whose patriotism and financial genius provided the sinews of war for the revolution. It was Stephen Girard of Philadelphia who was the government's fiscal agent in the war of 1812.

It was E. W. Clark of Philadelphia who floated most of the bonds for the prosecution of the Mexican war, and it was Jay Cooke of Philadelphia who financed the federal government in the war for the union, and by so doing made it possible to overcome the most powerful opposition which ever arose against any modern government. He raised for this purpose the enormous sum of over two billions of dollars. And all of this incomprehensible, if not fabulous sum, was secured at less expense than that at which any war debt of recent times has been funded and much of it was secured by his forte, financial ingenuity and alert energy with incredible celerity to meet special contingencies or to avert threatening crises, so that in detail as well as totality the achievement of Jay Cooke may fairly be characterized as the greatest achievement of its kind in history.

If it may be said of Robert Morris that "without him Washington's sword would have rusted in its sheath," it can with equal truth be affirmed of Jay Cooke that without his services the valor, the sagacity and the steadfastness of Grant and Sherman would have been exerted wholly in vain, for their vast and finally victorious armies could not have been sustained and kept a-field. General Grant himself so testified in his own terse, unmistakable manner and paid the federal financier the highest tribute ever accorded him in words which whatever may have been their seeming extravagance at the time, have long ago received the indorsement of the historians' unhurrying sobriety of judgment. It was during the closing days of the war when the great soldier met at the front by a mere chance the son of the great civilian, and on learning his identity, said to him.

"Tell your father that it is to his labors more than to those of any other man that the people of this country owe the continued life of the nation."—(Alfred Mathews in The Era for February.

THE BUCKLIN AMENDMENT.

Colorado Springs, February 9, 1902.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

Can you supply a reader a little light on the much-mooted Bucklin amendment? Is it anything else than the single tax advocated by Henry George—namely, a tax on land exclusively? What is the theory of benefit to accrue from this method of taxation? The fault of the present system is that moneyed interests escape their just share of the burden. Why, under the single tax, would this exemption not be rendered still more complete? The ranchman, owning his land, would be taxed the capitalist with his millions of stocks and bonds would be untaxed. Is this so?

Very respectfully, A Reader.

The questions in the above communication have most of them been already answered in these columns, but we expect to answer them many times more in the course of the discussion over the Bucklin bill. We consider that there is no reasonable probability of a withdrawal of this proposed amendment by the present assembly, and it is, therefore, of great importance that all of the people of the state should know exactly what this measure is and what its effects are likely to be.

The proposed amendment to the constitution commonly called the Bucklin amendment, does not change the present law in any way. It permits the legislature and the people of the various counties to change the law if they desire to do so, which cannot be done at the present time under the constitution. If the Bucklin amendment is accepted by vote of the people of the state it will permit two things to be done:

First. It will permit the legislature to place a tax upon land, rights of way and franchises in public ways two mills greater than upon personal property and improvements on lands. This will apply only to taxation for state purposes.

Second. It will permit the people of any county, once in four years, upon a petition signed by 100 taxpayers of that county, to vote upon the question of raising all local taxes (that is taxes for county, school district and municipal purposes) by taxing lands, rights of way and franchises in public ways, and exempting from taxation all personal property and improvements on lands.

This is not the single tax plan as advocated by Henry George, but is a modification of it.

The theory of benefit to accrue from this method of taxation appears to be, first, that it will do away with the vast and complicated system of valuation made necessary under the present system. Land cannot be concealed, and if taxes are levied only upon land, no property subject to taxation can escape attention. There will be an enormous decrease in perjury and much less likelihood of unfair discrimination between owners of the same class of property. A second reason undoubtedly is the belief that if land alone is taxed, while improvements upon land are not taxed, it will force land owners to make a more profitable use of their holdings than some of them are doing at present. The advocates of the amendment feel sure that if passed it will induce the investment of large amounts of capital in improvements, and that it will also tend toward the breaking up of large estates now held unimproved for speculative purposes. It may be said in passing that this argument does not have as much weight in a new state with large unleveled resources as it would have in an older and more thickly settled community. A third point with many people in favor of the amendment undoubtedly is that they think it would relieve many people of direct taxation and would compel other people to pay a larger amount. Naturally enough, a great many of those who think that they would escape taxation under the new system are in favor of it.

Under the single tax the exemption of moneyed interests not land-owning would be much more complete than under the present system. It should be borne in mind, however, that these matters would tend to equalize themselves much more than is commonly supposed. Every person pays rent in one form or another, and rent necessarily would be increased under the new system. The banker or the business man pays rent unless he owns his own property. The baker, the clothing man or the grocer would either pay rent or taxes upon his own land, and he would undoubtedly make up any increase by increased charges to his customers. The working man, whether living in his own home or in a boarding house, would pay the land tax indirectly. If he did not so directly, and in the end matters might adjust themselves very much as at the present time. In the process of adjustment, however, there undoubtedly would be a great deal of commotion, of unsettling of values, and in some cases very flagrant injustice.

The chief possibility of the passage of this amendment seems to lie in the intense earnestness of its friends, and in the indifference of the general public. Usually in such cases, the total vote cast is comparatively small. Many of those who are in favor of a trial of the new system vote for the amendment themselves and do their best to get others to vote for it, while those who are opposed to it only realize what it is about after the election has been held, the chances are that some at least of the counties of the state will make a trial of the single tax theory under the provisions of the Bucklin bill.

It is reported that the opponents of the Bucklin bill threaten to defeat the revenue measure unless the amendment is withdrawn. Such tactics, though common enough in legislative bodies, are always reprehensible. The revenue law should stand or fall on its own merits, and the same is true of the Bucklin amendment. If the legislators have not the intelligence and the sense to vote as they think best, without regard to what some body else is going to do in connection with some other measure, they are not fit for the positions they hold.

There is no apparent reason why the breakers of Blue Wallace Walton in Colorado Springs should run the climate. But facts are facts, and some facts cannot be explained merely as coincidences.

GREAT BRITAIN AND JAPAN.

AN INTERNATIONAL SENSATION of first-class importance was sprung when it was announced that a regular treaty of alliance had been concluded between Great Britain and Japan. The text of the agreement has been made public, and it includes not only co-operation in diplomatic ways, but, under certain conditions, defensive, and even offensive warfare against a common enemy.

The announcement comes less as a surprise because it has been known for some time past that the interests and purposes of these two nations were the same in regard to Chinese affairs. Both of them are opposed to any division of the Chinese empire among European powers. Both of them find it necessary to their commercial and political interests to resist the persistent encroachments of Russia in northern China. Both of them favor the opening of Chinese territory to foreign trade, and a policy that will increase the Chinese market for foreign goods to the largest possible extent. These objects, it may be noted, are entirely consistent with the Chinese policy of the United States, and while it would not be possible for this country to become a party to any such agreement as the one that has recently been signed, it may be taken for granted that Japan and Great Britain will have the diplomatic support of the United States in their efforts to maintain peace, to preserve the integrity of Chinese territory, and to open China to foreign trade upon equal conditions to all the nations of the world.

Such an agreement as the one concluded between Great Britain and Japan is not meant for children's play. It is serious business, the most serious business, for it involves the possibility of war, war far-reaching in its effects and involving a life and death struggle between some of the greatest nations of the world. There can be no mistake as to the power against which this treaty is particularly directed. The Russian Manchurian agreement, concerning which so much is written and so little understood, is undoubtedly a contravention of the peace settlement between China and the allied powers, and is a direct violation of the principles, which are set down as the basis for the new Anglo-Japanese treaty. The new alliance, therefore, is in the nature of an ultimatum to Russia. It is not a declaration of war, but it is a positive statement that the continuance of the policy of Russian aggression in northern China and Korea will be met by armed opposition from Japan and Great Britain. Whether war results or not will depend upon Russia, England and Japan do not assume the offensive. It is not they who will encroach upon Chinese territory or pursue their course regardless of the established rights of Russia. It may be, indeed, that the new treaty will contribute to maintaining the peace of the world, as is often the case when strong nations take a positive and decided stand which they are willing to back by force of arms if necessary.

The situation is more perplexing because of the doubt as to its effect upon the policy of Germany in China. Like Russia, Germany was a party to the action of the allied powers in the march upon Peking and in the peace negotiations that followed. To all appearance Germany is as much interested as either England or Japan in preserving Chinese territorial integrity and the open door. Recently, however, it has been stated that Germany has acquired special concessions in the province of Shantung, and it is further said that these concessions are the result of long continued effort with the Chinese court, and that they have been granted as the result of Russian influence in exchange for Germany's acquiescence in the Russian aggression in Manchuria. If these things are so, it may be that the new alliance will find itself confronted with the combined force of Germany and Russia, and this would be quite a different matter than if they had to deal with Russia alone.

A very interesting point in connection with this new treaty is that it is the first time that an international alliance of first-class importance has been concluded between a European and an oriental power. The rapid progress of Japan in civilization in the past few years has attracted universal attention. At the close of the war between Japan and China it was recognized that the former nation had fairly won its place among the great civilized powers of the world. The treaty with Great Britain is a further and more complete demonstration of this fact. It is a great triumph for Japanese diplomacy to have consummated such an arrangement, and Japan now occupies a position in the world's affairs that she has never before attained.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

THE COLORADO Conference of Charities and Corrections will be held in this city next Sunday evening and Monday. It promises to be a notable affair, and is worthy the attention of all interested in organized charity and modern philanthropy. Official invitations have been sent out, and the attendance is expected to be large.

The conference is especially fortunate in securing the presence of Miss Jane Addams, whose work at Hull House, Chicago, has attracted world-wide attention by its practical success. Miss Addams will speak at the public meeting, which is to be held at the Baptist church on Sunday evening, and this address alone is sufficient to constitute a notable occasion.

If some of the high school students and members of the high school cadet corps will do give a ball game, and to an intense High School Cadet ball game, the Gazette does not see any good reason for interference on the part of the high school authorities, or of anyone else. The same broad principles ought to apply in this as are commonly in use between gentlemen and ladies in the ordinary affairs of life. Some people dance, others do not. Some people think it wrong to dance, others, equally conscientious and equally moral, think it not only harmless, but positively beneficial in promoting social amusement and improving the manners of the rising generation. There is plenty of room for both opinions, and plenty of opportunity for all the discussion and conference that is good for the world in matters much more essential. The broad spirit of tolerant and intelligent regard for the opinions of those who differ with us is the only safe plan in such affairs.

TO SAVE FLOOD WATERS IN NEVADA.

(Contributed.)

Investigations have been started in Nevada by the United States geological survey, under the charge of Mr. A. P. Taylor, looking to the ultimate storage of the flood waters of the principal streams. On account of the aridity of the climate, agriculture must be carried on by irrigation to be successful. The rivers are the only source of water for that purpose, and, owing to their extremely low flow in the especial crop growing period, the territory which can be irrigated is limited. On the other hand, the spring flow of these streams is large, and immense quantities of it go to waste. From measurements taken at the Truckee, Carson and Walker rivers it was shown to be only seven cubic feet per second, while the spring flow was over 6,000 cubic feet per second. During the last two years the geological survey has been investigating the possibilities of storing the flood waters of the Truckee, Carson and Walker rivers by means of storage reservoirs. The results of these investigations have been published, those of the Truckee river have been completed and are now being worked up. The Truckee river is now being surveyed, and a working force has been sent to the Carson.

Enjoyable Meeting of Zebulon Pike Chapter

The Zebulon Pike Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held their February meeting, yesterday forenoon, at the residence of Mrs. Sidney R. Bartlett, 1150 Wood avenue. It was an unusually instructive and interesting session.

Miss Mary L. Riley of Wenver, a member of the society of Colonial Dames in Colorado, gave the paper of the day. The subject was "Antique Furniture," and it was handled in a very clear and comprehensive manner that showed much painstaking research. It is really remarkable that so many valuable pieces of furniture have been preserved since colonial days and are now in the possession of Colorado people.

Time proved al too short for the animated discussion which supplemented the paper and brought to light still further interesting facts in connection with the subject.

Mrs. Charles S. Sprague had accepted an invitation as soloist of the occasion, but unfortunately she was detained at home on account of illness.

In this emergency Mrs. John S. Tucker, with her accustomed kindness, consented to fill Mrs. Sprague's place upon the program.

Mrs. Tucker's selections were most enjoyable, particularly "The Holy City."

Mrs. Bartlett gave a small luncheon after the meeting closed. Covers were laid for 12.

Nebraska Debaters to Be Selected Tonight

Three men will be selected tonight to represent Colorado college in the annual debate between that institution and the University of Nebraska. The contest will be held in the college auditorium and is open to the public, there being no admission fee.

The question to be debated is, "Resolved, That municipalities having a population of 100,000 and over should own and operate their transportation facilities." The affirmative will be upheld by Weiser, '02, and Hoyt, '04, and the negative by Packard, '02, Holden, '03, and Guernsey, '04. Each speaker will have 12 minutes to present his case and the argument is to be independent of any preceding argument. Prof. Parsons will preside.

Joseph Verner Reed Is Eligible to Presidency

Joseph Verner Reed, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Verner Z. Reed, of Colorado Springs, is an American citizen. He was born in Nice, France, about three weeks ago, and a copy of the certificate of birth was filed for record yesterday as proof that he will be eligible to the presidency of the United States.

The child was born January 18. A certificate of birth was issued from the Bureau de l'Etat Civil, Nice. This certificate was made a matter of record at the office of Harold Van Buren, the United States consul at Nice. In the paper which was filed at the court house yesterday, it is stated that the original certificate was recorded at the consulate to establish the fact of the birth, parentage and American nationality of the child.

The document filed at the office of the county clerk is a certified copy of all the records, and is signed by Mr. Reed and Consul Van Buren.

Gets Jail Sentence as Cure for Sore Throat

Alice Caine, a pretty young widow, who lives in Colorado City, pleaded guilty yesterday in Justice Ruby's court to the theft of a feather boa from her former employers, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Morgan, of North Cascade avenue. She was fined $10 and costs, amounting in all to $21.75, and in default of payment was remanded into the custody of the sheriff.

Mrs. Caine, who is an attractive looking brunette, was arrested yesterday morning at her home by Deputy Sheriff Dayton. She had been in the employ of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan for about a month, until recently, when she left the place and went home, saying that she was ill. A valuable ostrich feather boa belonging to Mrs. Morgan was missed after the young woman left, but she was not suspected at first. Mr. Morgan visited Mrs. Caine at the home of her sister to inquire when she expected to return to work. She acted so queerly that Mr. Morgan's suspicions were aroused, and although loath to prosecute her, he swore out a search warrant before Justice Ruby yesterday morning. Dayton went to the young woman's home and found the missing boa in a trunk. Mrs. Caine was then arrested.

Mrs. Caine pleaded guilty when she was arraigned. She said she had taken the boa because her throat was sore and she needed something to protect it from the cold.

Violette Jackson Trial Now in District Court

The trial of the suit brought by Violette Jackson against the Newton Lumber company for $15,000 damages was begun in the district court yesterday afternoon before Judge Cunningham. Most of the afternoon was taken in the examination of jurors, but two witnesses for the plaintiff were heard before court adjourned for the day.

On September 29, 1898, Miss Jackson was driving a light trap along one of the streets of Manitou, when a runaway team belonging to the lumber company crashed into her vehicle. She was thrown out and so seriously injured that her life was despaired of for some time. For the injuries she received she demands $15,000 damages. The plaintiff alleges that the accident was due to the negligence of the lumber company, owing to the alleged fact that the wagon was so overloaded that the horses attached to it could not hold the wagon while coming down a steep hill, and consequently ran away.

After the jury was secured yesterday afternoon, Attorney Sheafor, for the defense, moved that judgment be rendered on the pleadings, as the plaintiff had failed to file a reply to the defendant's answer. The plaintiff was permitted to file a reply immediately, and the first witness for the plaintiff was called.

Dr. Collins, of Pueblo, was the first witness, and he gave an account of the nature of the injuries sustained by Miss Jackson in the accident. Mr. Ward, formerly of Manitou, but now living in Cripple Creek, was the second witness. He was riding a burro along Ruxton avenue at the time of the accident, and although he did not see the collision, he detailed what he saw afterwards. Court was adjourned after Mr. Ward's testimony until this morning.

The plaintiff is represented by Messrs. Gunnell, Chinn, Miller and White, and the defendant by Messrs. Sheafor and Rouse.

BOARDER STOCKSHOOTS IN DETENTION AS THE SENCE

Oliver Smith, who has been living at the Pike View rooming house, on South Nevada avenue, is said to have made a sudden decision about 3 o'clock yesterday morning to change his place of residence. He was preparing to leave the house when the proprietor, L. W. Smith, heard him and entered a remonstrance. There was a row and all the boarders were awakened from their sleep.

Later in the morning the proprietor swore out a warrant before Justice McCollane, charging Oliver with disturbance. The boarder was arrested and arraigned before the justice. He was sent to jail in default of $200 bail, pending a hearing tomorrow.

[illegible] PLANS FOR NEW DEPOT IN CHICAGO

Drawings of the new Rock Island depot at Chicago have been received at the Rock Island office in this city. They have been approved by the general officials of the road and the depot will be built at once.

The new station will cost about $200,000 and will be one of the finest in Chicago. It will cover a whole block, occupying the space between Van Buren and Harrison and Pacific and Sherman streets. It will be eight stories high and constructed of dressed granite to the third story. The upper portion will be of vitrified brick with stone trimmings.

The building will front north, occupying the full frontage on Van Buren street and located about 15 feet back of the property line. It will extend back to the south 197 feet. Beyond this will be built the concourse connecting the main building with the train shed. The shed will be 580 feet in length.

RATE WAR SETTLEMENT IS EXPECTED NEXT WEEK

No word has been received here as yet of the settlement of the rate war between the Colorado Midland and Short Line. The rates are still in force, both as to the passenger and freight departments.

As the result of the announcement that there was to be a speedy termination of the war the local offices of both the Short Line and Midland have been crowded with people wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity of making the trip while the rates were on.

It was thought that the war would have been declared off today, but there appears to have been no settlement and the matter may now be deferred until next week.

SNOW PLOW ON THE NEW RAILWAY STREET

The new snow plow recently purchased by the Colorado Springs and Suburban Railway company was brought into use yesterday afternoon for the first time. The new plow worked successfully and kept the tracks clear from snow.

The plow was first taken up and down Tejon street. It was then taken on the Manitou line. The plow sweeps clean and makes the tracks free so that cars have no difficulty in making their schedule time during a heavy snow storm, such as was experienced for a brief time yesterday afternoon.

H. S. ERVAY SELLS HIS BOULDER ST. PROPERTY

H. S. Ervay of Denver has sold his property in this city located at 116 East Boulder street to Mrs. C. S. Baker, who has been living there for several months. The deal was closed yesterday morning, the consideration being $8,500. Captain Ervay has not occupied the house for some time and it has been on the market. The negotiations between Mr. Ervay and Mrs. Baker have been pending for the past month. Mrs. Baker has been conducting a boarding house there and will continue to do so. The house is of brick, three stories and a very pretty place.

FIRE THREATENED THE DE COURSEY RESIDENCE

Fire threatened the destruction of the residence of Mrs. M. L. De Coursey, No. 730 North Cascade avenue, yesterday morning. Prompt work on the part of the firemen saved the building from destruction. The loss was about $300, fully insured.

The flames originated in a dumb waiter shaft, from hot ashes in the cellar. The fire ascended the shaft to the roof and was burning fiercely when the central, north end and west side companies arrived in response to a telephone alarm. The firemen got to work quickly and after hard work the flames were extinguished.

About three months ago there was a fire in the house just back of the De Coursey residence.

THE [illegible] WILL MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Colorado Springs will have a general teachers' meeting at the High school auditorium this afternoon at 4 o'clock. It will be an interesting meeting and several attractive numbers are scheduled for the program.

The High School Glee club will furnish music and there will be an address by Superintendent Dietrich on "Sources of the Teacher's Power," or "The Relation of the Teacher to the School."

LOST THE FIGHT AND WANTS PAY

SAYS CAR CREW BEAT HIM OF $5,000 WORTH.

Edward Gleason Sues Rapid Transit—Two Divorce Actions Begun in Local Courts.

Edward Gleason thinks the Rapid Transit company should pay him $5,000 for the beating he alleges that he received from a motorman and conductor in the employ of the company last September. He filed a suit in the district court yesterday demanding that amount of damages.

In the complaint Gleason says that he was a passenger on a car bound east on Huerfano street on September 23. When the car reached Nevada avenue, he says he made certain inquiries of the conductor, and that an altercation followed.

Gleason declares that the conductor assaulted him, and that the motorman came to the conductor's assistance. The two employes, Gleason says, choked him, crushed him against a seat, so that his ankle was injured.

After this, the plaintiff states, he was thrown off the car and left "helpless and alone."

Gleason says it was three months before he recovered from the effects of the alleged beating.

Two divorce suits were filed in the local courts yesterday, one of the cases being tried.

In the county court E. J. Daughters filed a divorce suit against Lulu Daughters. They were married in Oswego, Kans., in 1894, and in August 1900 Mrs. Daughters left her husband. The case was tried and the divorce granted.

In the district court Clarinda J. Meyers began suit for a divorce from her husband, Charles H. Meyers. Cruelty is named in the complaint as the ground for the suit. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers were married four years ago.

CLUB WOMEN TO FORM A FEDERATION

There will be an important meeting of Colorado Springs club women and workers in several organizations not exactly in the nature of women's clubs, at the hall room of the Alamo hotel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The meeting is called for the purpose of organizing a city federation of women and it is expected that the organization will be a very strong one from the beginning.

The Four O'clock Progress club, the Tuesday Reading club, the Monday Progress club, the Centennial club and the North End W. C. T. U. have announced their intention of affiliating with the new federation, but membership will not be restricted to the membership of these or other clubs or organizations. Any non-club woman or any member of any club that is not affiliated with the federation will be eligible to membership and all members of the federation of women will have full benefit of all general meetings, programs, discussions, lectures or whatever that body may decide to bring before its meeting.

The meeting tomorrow will in all probability prove to be the most important in the history of women's organizations in Colorado Springs.

FREE HAIR FOOD AND SHAMPOO SCALP SOAP

To prove the wonderful merits of Cranitonic Hair and Scalp Food, its absolute purity, therapeutic value and elegance, its freedom from grease, sediment and dangerous dye matter, and to convince you that it will stop falling hair, make hair grow, cure dandruff and itching scalp, and that it is the only hair dress never formulated fit to put on the human head, we will send by mail, PREPAID, to all who send name and full address, and mention the name of this paper, a 68-page illustrated book entitled Hair Care and Testimonials and dainty sample of Cranitonic Hair and Scalp Food products.

SEND SAMPLE OF HAIR.

In cases where there is excessive falling out of the hair, itching, dandruff or other hair or scalp troubles, you are recommended to send us for microscopic examination a few hairs, or a sample from the daily combings. Our physicians will make a diagnosis and send you a report concerning the condition of your hair without any charge being made for their professional services. Write to-day.

THE RECORD OF 1902.

In the Cranitonic Institute of New York City, (incorporated under the laws of the State of New York) the only institution of its kind in this country, 14,370 people were personally examined and prescribed for by the physicians during the past year, while 25,484 were successfully treated by correspondence. For scientific research and investigation into the causes and cure of hair and scalp diseases and in the perfection of its formulae, the Cranitonic Hair Food Company has already expended more than $200,000.

Cranitonic Hair and Scalp Food is for sale by Druggists everywhere, or will be sent direct from Laboratories, charges prepaid, upon receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle.

FREDERICK WARDE IN "THE MOUNTEBANK."

On next Tuesday evening at the Opera house, Mr. Frederick Warde, the distinguished actor, presents his famous characterization, "Beliphegor, the Mountebank." The Portland (Ore.) Oregonian, had this to say of it, when it was presented there: "The part of Beliphegor has so long held a prominent place in Warde's repertoire, and is so familiar to Portland's playgoers, that it is difficult to say anything about it and avoid repetition. Mr. Warde's Beliphegor last evening was the Beliphegor of previous years, plus, perhaps, and perhaps richer in detail. It was the same tender, honest, heroic characterization that enlisted the sympathy and aroused the admiration of this city's lovers of romantic drama a decade ago. Beliphegor's chief appeal to us lies in his essential guilelessness, manliness and in his bravery—the natural accompaniment of a character that is both manly and simple. In his bringing out and blending of these qualities Mr. Warde was intelligently consistent. His quiet and quaint work in the earlier scenes was a skillful preparation of his audience's feelings for the exciting situations and climaxes of the third and fourth acts. Gradually and almost imperceptibly, he carried his public from a scene of placid enjoyment to a state of sympathetic pity, and then into a whirlwind of rapturous admiration. It was well worth and generously was it rewarded. Curtain calls were numerous and severe."

BLACK PATTI'S TROUBADOURS.

Mirth, melody and music is the keynote of the performance to be given by the famous Black Patti Troubadours at the Opera house tomorrow afternoon and evening. These sweet singers and merry comic humorists of Dixie have won recognition for years as a high-class standard attraction and one that has within a comparatively short space of time grown and developed into a product of real merit. Among the big features are a big minstrel show, a vocal star of the first magnitude in the person of Black Patti, in addition to a vocal quartet of the highest order of merit, and the famous Black Patti's Troubadours Chorus, presenting the "Filipino Mis-Pit," "Songs of Dixie," "Operatic Kaleidoscope" and Varieties, Mirth, Melody and Music.

Springs People Attend Banquet at Fountain

One of the most important events in the history of the town of Fountain will be the public banquet that is to be held there this evening in the interest of the public reading room and library. A number of Colorado Springs people who are interested in the growth of the spirit in Fountain which has led to the establishment of the reading room there will go to Fountain tonight to be present at the banquet.

A charge of 50 cents a plate is to be made at the banquet and one of the most attractive spreads that has ever been put together in this county is said to be in store for those who attend.

The occasion will be made one of celebration of Fountain's new prosperity and Colorado Springs people who attend will have a chance to learn considerable concerning the business growth of the town and the justification for the civic excitement that is growing there.

It is expected that the banquet will result in the establishment of the reading room upon a firm, permanent basis. Prominent speakers are announced for responses to the toasts.

Annual Police Ball Takes Place Tonight

The eleventh annual ball of the Colorado Springs police department will be given tonight at the Temple theater. The sale of tickets is large and from indications it is expected that the ball will be the most successful ever given by the department. Tickets will be on sale at the theater tonight. The proceeds will go towards the fund in the treasury of the Policemen's Relief association.

All arrangements for the ball have been made. Barnes' orchestra will furnish the music. Charles Berry will be prompter. The committees are as follows:

Arrangements—Chief Vincent King, Captain Thomas J. Fair, Detective Atkinson, Officers E. Shelby, N. G. Hughes, C. A. Williams, Thomas Knight and Sergeant McNew.

Reception—Chief Vincent King, Detective J. R. Gregory, Officers C. E. Burch, William James, D. H. Bennett, R. C. Hall, C. E. Knapp, James McCabe and Steve Armstrong.

Floor—Captain Thomas J. Fair, Detective Atkinson, Officers Steve Armstrong, C. C. McReynolds, D. F. Gaines, Edward G. Nagley, F. G. Hughes, Harvey Gillingham, P. J. Donovan, D. F. Bennett and Sergeant Sherman McNew.

MINERAL HILL PROPERTY

Strike of Rich Ore Being Made. Boom Seen Imminent—Interest Centers in 500-foot Level of the Mary McKinney.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Feb. 11.—The bureau of talk in mining circles today has been Mineral hill. The prospector, the lessee and the big operator all seem equally interested in the present showing of the Peterson & Stone lease on the Laura Lee claim, located northeast of the city on Mineral hill. There were a large number of specimens of high grade ore being exhibited about the district. The richest of the shoot is about two inches in width and is liberally specked with free gold. The rock has more the appearance of roasted high grade than the original condition of ore. The free gold is found on manganese streaks, inclosed in porphyry and it is thought the porphyry will run well in values. It remains that the strike has still to be developed and this is being watched with a great deal of interest. Owners of adjoining property have been besieged by applications for leases and options and it looks as if a Mineral hill boom is imminent. The strike was made at a depth of 110 feet and it is very likely that the lead has at last been found that furnished the rich nuggets from the placer ground just north of the city. Mineral hill has been an enigma to operators ever since the camp was discovered and it has often been remarked that as soon as some lucky prospector should solve the puzzle of the system of veins and ore bodies, Mineral hill will be made to flourish in like manner to the hills inside the regular producing area. The lessees have all confidence in their prospects and believe they have two feet of ore that will run 550 per ton. The first shipment from the property will prove the truth of this theory and in the meantime conjectures are rife.

The great showing in the 500-foot level of the Mary McKinney mine is attracting unusual attention, and it is thought that with the running out of deeper drifts, even a bigger proposition will be disclosed. In the south drift at the 500-foot level a distance of nearly 1,000 feet from the shaft, the ore body is 18 feet in width and the best of it runs 255 per ton. In the north drift on the 500 shoot the width of the vein is almost 40 feet. The measurements of the ore body at this depth are better than they have been in the upper levels, showing clearly the improvement that is had as depth is gained.

J. B. Neville, the president of the Free Coinage company on Bull hill, has opened up an entirely new vein and ore shoot in his lease at a depth of 100 feet from the surface. Here he has a four-foot body which assays up to 15 and 20 ounces in gold to the ton. Streaks in the vein are alive with sylvanite and free gold and the whole thing should make a big shipping proposition. In carload lots the ore should run well into smelting grade.

Ogilvie & Company, operating the Great View claim of the Anaconda on Gold hill, have commenced crosscutting at a depth of 155 feet for the different ore bodies that have yielded a steady production in the 105-foot level for the last 20 months. The principal ore body sought is what is known as the Blue vein, about four feet in width, carrying an excellent grade of ore. A big ore shoot opened in the lower shaft of the property will also be thoroughly prospected, although the lessees will not be disappointed if the showing is not what it was at the upper depth. There the vein was some 10 to 15 feet in width, yielding smelting grade ore for a good length of the vein up to the surface.

Kirk & Company, leasing a block of the Clara D., of the Lexington company on Gold hill, are maintaining an output of about three carloads of ore per week. The lessees have a big reserve in sight and expect to install a steam plant on one of the shafts on the block within a short time, when the production will be materially increased.

SABELLA UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

General Manager De La Vergne Speaks of the Present Condition and Future Development of the Mine.

General Manager De La Vergne of the Isabella company returned from a few days' inspection of the property yesterday and reports that the surface equipment is being overhauled and arrangements made to carry on the development work in the upper levels of the mine. The water stands just below the twelfth level and will be allowed to remain there for the present until the management decides to drain the property that an examination may be made of the bottom workings.

"The condition of the mine is quite satisfactory," Mr. De La Vergne stated, "and we shall be able to take out ore from the upper levels which will pay all the expenses of operation and such development work as we are planning without drawing upon the treasury reserve, which now amounts to about $47,000.

"Owing to the flooded condition of the fourteenth level and the expense of taking the water out the management is not desirous of doing any development work at that depth for the present. We intend to follow out our line of prospecting in the upper levels of the mine, and future development work will depend very largely upon what the outcome of this work is."

The boilers on the property need some attention before the plant can be operated to advantage, the fronts being damaged and the brick floor underneath them will need replacing, while there are some underground improvements to be made, also.

DES MOINES LESSEES GET ASSAYS

Two Good Shoots Encountered Near Bottom of the Shaft—Good Lease to Be Granted on Mill Site.

President Herring of the Des Moines company returned from a visit to the property yesterday and reports some very promising indications for ore in the Bob Tail claim which has been leased in two blocks. Two separate veins have been opened in the claim and assays are being encountered in the course of drifting which is now being prosecuted at a depth of about 80 feet. The assays do not run pay, but the veins are in place and the character of the rock is encouraging. Mr. Le Duc, who is operating one of the blocks, is thoroughly familiar with this part of the camp, and is confident that ore will be opened in the claim. The leases were granted a few months ago and good work has been done since then. When the lessees have located their ore it is their intention to equip the property with machinery.

A good application has been made for a lease on the company's Mud Hen claim, which will be granted at once on favorable terms for both the company and the lessee. The two claims of the Des Moines company lie together on Raven hill, in almost the center of the district, and have always been considered very promising undeveloped ground by those who are familiar with the camp. The management is seeing to it that the ground is leased out to responsible persons, and it is being kept under good activity.

GOLDEN FLEECE IMPROVEMENT

The improved conditions in the Golden Fleece mine were described yesterday in the Denver News as follows:

The Golden Fleece group of five full claims, near Lake City, Hinsdale county, promises to become one of the great producers of the present year. It was first developed near the surface in 1892, and from that date to 1897 added $3,000,000 to the gold-silver product of the state, some of the tellurium ore being so rich in value that the amount stolen in 1896 was estimated by the management at $100,000. An investigation resulted in a complete change in the force employed on the property, from superintendent to mule driver, and in the placing of armed guards over the high grade stuff, who relinquished their charge when the Grant-Omaha smelter, this city, gave its assay receipts.

High grade shipments have again been resumed as the result of extensive development, which was planned in the spring of 1897, when dividends were suspended, which will be finished early next month, at which time three several ore shoots will be ready for the miner all contributing to the smelters, as the company's concentration plant, which will work on 12 material, will produce nothing but a 200 concentrate, about five tons into one.

A carload of the latter was shipped from the mine last Saturday, while Mr. D. K. Lee, one of the prominent stockholders, was inspecting the property. He has just returned from Lake City, and informs the News that early in March, when the 400-foot upraise is completed, the Fleece will commence shipping from three different veins, all of which were cut by the lower tunnel in its progress from the mill site to the starting point of the upraise on the bonanza ore shoot, which shows the 1896 characteristics at 1,000 feet from the surface, thus establishing the theory of value with depth. This latter vein is three feet in width, and has already been exposed for a distance of 80 feet.

The new Golden Fleece mill has capacity for 60 tons per day. The present supply of mill ore is so large that preparations are being made to double capacity as soon as the weather will permit. The mill will commence steady operation early next month. At its present size the mill can place upon the cars 12 to 15 tons of concentrates every 24 hours, thus contributing to the heavy shipments predicted for next month.

A resumption of Golden Fleece dividends in May would surprise no one who is acquainted with the present condition of the property, and the average value of the ore bodies in sight. By the middle of March expenses will be cut to minimate production from the three known ore veins and the cost increased in raising the capacity of the concentration plant from 60 to 100 tons per day of 212 ore.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

The lease of S. R. Kellum on the Anna Belle claim of the Sedan company has been extended to April 1, 1904 on his agreement to sink the shaft 100 feet at once. The present depth of the shaft is 100 feet. Mr. Kellum also gives assurance to the company that he has secured some strong capital to back him, and that his operations in the future can be more extensive than they have been in the past. From time to time he has come into some very rich grade streaks of ore, and the mine has looked very promising at many times, but the thorough development which obviously was necessary he was not able to carry on with the result that no consistent shoot of ore has been opened. Mr. Kellum is a thoroughly competent miner, with the development resources, and makes a good starting one [illegible]

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Feb. 13.—The mining stocks today looked a little more active, with the preferred list decidedly in the lead. The mines were more or less dull, although the weakness which was apparent in that department yesterday was somewhat offset today by a couple of fractional recoveries, and the trading was mostly on the bull side. In the preferred department there were no especial indications of strength. The trading was more general than it has been, bringing out some forced sales and consequently lower prices in many of the lower priced shares. The trading in the mines list opened with Acacia first at 11¼. Elkton was somewhat lower at $1.31¼ and El Paso was active, recovering two cents to $1. Isabella was also higher at 24. Port and Rose at $2.60 to the amount of 200 shares. In the preferred list Alamo was firm at 12, but Calera experienced a slight reaction, going back from 2¼ to 2½, while Little Puck declined from 5¾ to 5½. Nellie V. recovered another fraction to 2½ and Sunset-Eclipse remained strong at 13½. Golf Knob declined to 3½. The common list was very dull, with prices inclined to go slightly lower, although the trading was of so light a character that the market cannot be pronounced

EASTERN MARKETS

New York Stock Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, Feb. 13.—Today's stock market was similar in character to that of Tuesday but showed an increased disposition to realize profits where considerable advances had occurred. The buying was bidden up of some stocks to make fresh points of advance to cover the reaching was a gradual but rather less effective than on Tuesday, periodically sometimes, the market gains being more than lost in late recoveries. The week opened bearish with rather extreme weakness in the Wabash issues, the chief feature of the day, the stock being carried down to a point 2½ below Tuesday's close, but the stock rallied to close only a point below Tuesday's close. The market was dull and heavy in the early dealings, the general list showing weakness in sympathy with the Wabash issues. There was no news to account for the weakness. The depression of the local tractions was, of course, due to the proposition of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit directors to issue bonds to the extent of $150,000,000. The argument that this abundant capital would check the diversion of current earnings into the betterments and extensions and would thus hasten the period of dividend disbursements apparently failed to reassure speculative sentiment, and the open buying of the stocks by inside interests was equally unavailing. The news of the proposed bond issue also upset calculation of a coming merger of all the greater New York transit facilities, which has been an instrument in the hands of the speculators for some time past. The failure of the announcements of the details of the Metropolitan Street Railway's new financial plan, which was expected today, added to the feeling of doubt and distrust, although that stock itself was best supported of the group. There was no apparent cause for the reaction in prices in the news of the day outside of this, beyond the natural disposition to sell at a profit what had been bought at lower prices. Reports of renewed rate cutting among the far western railroads may have emphasized the desire to sell their stocks. The reports received of gross earnings for the first week in February also showed a rather prevalent tendency to decreases compared with last year. This was notably true of the southwestern railroads, but there was marked strength in that group led by Texas & Pacific with a rise of 2½ on intimation of very large earnings. There were unusually large declines in the Colorado & Southern stocks, which were supposed to be due to expectation of increased dividend disbursements, but the common rose an extreme 2½ over Tuesday's level late in the day after the announcement had been made of the declaration of only the regular 1½ per cent. semi-annual dividend on the first preferred stock.

MILITARY EXHIBIT.

Plans Maturing to Make It One of the Imposing Features of the Great Exposition.

St. Louis, Feb. 8.—In the development of the many interesting features of the Louisiana Purchase exposition no department is pushing ahead of that in which the military exhibit is being worked out. When the first plans for organizing the World's fair of 1903 were begun the military display was considered by the exposition officials as one of great importance, and much energy has been expended in preparing for it. Suggestions, and even detail plans, have been submitted to the officials in charge by many civilians and almost innumerable army and navy officers.

State military organizations from all parts of the United States are manifesting deep interest in this exhibit. In Colorado and in Minnesota the consent of the governor has already been obtained for the National Guard to visit the World's fair, accompanied by their regimental bands. The Minnesota plan is to make the trip from Lake City to St. Louis by steamboat down the Mississippi. During the visit of the governor and his staff to the fair the state guard will act as escort to the commander-in-chief.

Brigadier-General Eugene A. Carr of the U. S. army, retired, writing to Vice President Spencer of the exposition on the subject of a military exhibit, says:

"I think it would be well to have a camp of troops and an exhibition of military appliances in a building. The government would no doubt make a detail of, say a brigade composed of two regiments of infantry, a squadron (four troops) of cavalry and a battery of artillery, each command to remain about two weeks, so that as much of our army as could be available would in succession visit the exposition in about six months.

"A command of that size would include four bands, which in themselves would add greatly to the exposition. There would also be a contingent of Confederate veterans and state guards, of whom some have already applied, and each of whom would have a band.

"There would be drills, parades, guard mountings and other military ceremonies and constant friendly visiting to the camps.

"The camp would also be a rendezvous for the military of foreign countries, many of whom will no doubt wish to visit and participate in the exposition. The material part of the military exhibit would comprise:

"1. The food of the army, with practical demonstration of the manner of cooking and serving in camp.

"2. The clothing and how worn and used.

"3. The various uniforms of the army from Colonial times to the present, of which the quartermaster's department has in Washington complete sets mounted on wax figures.

"4. Various means of transportation, wagons, pack mules, etc.

"5. Floating and movable bridges and other engineering appliances.

"6. Arms and ammunition from the beginning of the art of war to the present time.

"In this, foreign exhibitors would no doubt make an extensive display—from the monster Krupp gun down to the Mannlicher rifle. And we would show our various arms, large guns with disappearing carriages, etc., if space would permit; the Winchesters, Colts, etc., etc., in which we are ahead of the world.

"I have in Springfield a wooden mortar made of the butt of a tree and used at Mobile. There are a great many curiosities in military weapons—the James and armor of the crusaders, the bolo and krise of the Philippines, etc., etc.

"The surgical department of the army has a most extensive and elaborate museum in Washington, of which such as might be appropriate would no doubt be loaned to the military exhibit, including ambulances, litters, etc., etc.

"We would make travois, or improvised conveniences for carrying wounded and sick men, such as we used on the frontier in the absence of wagons and roads.

"There would, of course, be a field hospital in the camp and we would adopt and enforce the most perfect and rigid sanitary measures, thus giving an object lesson against such occurrences as took place in the volunteer camps during the Spanish war.

"8. The signal service of the army would show its most perfect system of communication by flags, heliograph wires and cables; also their modes of observation and reconnoissance by balloons, kites and cameras.

"There are innumerable objects of interest connected with the military art, of which such could be selected as would be most attractive as far as room would serve."

OBSERVERS—Z. T. Roberts and W. H. Nead.

CONTENTS OF COLUMNS.

1. Barometer. Actual pressure in inches of mercury at 12 noon.
2. Thermometer at 6 a. m. (degrees Fahrenheit).
3. Thermometer at 12 m.
4. Thermometer at 6 p. m.
5. Minimum thermometer as read at 6 a. m.
6. Maximum thermometer as read at 6 p. m.
(Readings below zero occur in column 2, days 26th to 29th inclusive, column 4, the 25th, and column 5, the 26th to 30th inclusive.)
7. Relative humidity (per cent. of saturation) at 12 m.
8. Mean relative humidity (average of observations at 6 a. m., 12 m., 6 p. m.).
9. Direction of wind at 6 a. m. (Beside the usual letters for points of the compass, C indicates calm and V variable).
10. Direction of wind at 12 m.
11. Direction of wind at 6 p. m.
12. Maximum velocity of wind in miles per hour during 24 hours ending 6 p. m.
13. Character of sky, 12 m. C signifies clear, P partly cloudy, O overcast or cloudy.
14. Precipitation. Amount of rainfall, including snow as melted, in inches of water. T signifies "trace," that is, less than one one-hundredth of an inch.
15. Letter referring to remarks in column below.

The maximum temperature of the month was 65 degrees, and occurred on the 13th. The minimum temperature, 16 degrees below zero, on the 26th. The total precipitation was .08 of an inch, all in the form of snow, and melted as 2.8 inches when in that form. The number of days registered as clear was 19, partly cloudy 10, cloudy 2. There were only three days on which an amount of precipitation sufficient to be measured was recorded. The maximum of barometric pressure occurred on the 10th, when 24.27 was the reading at noon. The minimum was on the 25th, when 23.332 was observed at 6 a. m. The maximum velocity of wind was 44 miles an hour, on the 25th. The temperature fell below the freezing point every night, but was above freezing in some part of every day except the seven days from the 23d to the 29th inclusive.

REMARKS ON PARTICULAR DATES.

(In these remarks, it is understood that the references to the hours at which precipitation occurred form part of the record of Messrs. Roberts and Nead; the matter enclosed in quotation marks is due to Professor Shedd, and belongs to his record of the microscopic forms of snow-crystals with the circumstances of their occurrence; while the material for the remainder is in general drawn from an inspection of the U. S. weather maps.)

Jan. 3. A high barometer, central in the Dakotas and Minnesota, occasioned cloudiness over the lower Mississippi and westward, but the snowfall was neither extensive nor important. At one station (1:30 to 1:45 p. m.

Jan. 10. The maximum barometer of the month took place at the time of an interesting anticyclone, when pressures above 30 inches occupied the entire region west of the great lakes, culminating over the Rocky mountains.

Jan. 13. The warmest day of the month was characterized by high pressures both over the plateau region (Idaho) and the lower Mississippi (Arkansas) which fell to normal in southern California and North Dakota. In these circumstances, it seems probable that there was a transference of air down the mountain slopes in the neighborhood, under the influence of the western "high" and northern "low." But this result, if actual, was not energetic enough to cause a perceptible "chinook," the record showing only the ordinary diurnal shifting of the wind.

Jan. 17. Upon this date a region of moderately high barometer, having clear skies in the center, but fringed with cloud and snowfall along the edge, advanced rapidly eastward across the mountains. The station barometer, which had reached a minimum in the early morning, rose slowly during the day. Snow fell from just before noon to half past two. Professor Shedd, describes the phenomena: "Clear in a. m. Wind in W. and N. W. light—cloud over Pike's Peak. This cloud grew and settled down over the mountains. At 11:30 high N. W. wind arose, bringing heavy fall of snow. Flakes were aggregations of smaller ones, but no granulations or crystals. Later, flakes became smaller—no crystals. Temperature about 32 degrees. General storm—clouds nimbus."

Jan. 20. A low area in northern Texas was surrounded by a very considerable region of cloud and snowfall, mostly, however, to the east of our station. Snow fell here in short squalls, which the observers place between 11:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. Professor Shedd notes: "Snow flurry, 8 to 9 a. m., no crystals; flakes small and fine. Flurry in p. m., flakes large."

Jan. 22. Moderately low pressures occurred over the high lands to the south; high to the north, with a line of snowfall extending from Pueblo to Duluth and clouds eastward to and beyond the Mississippi. "Toward evening the clouds settled down from the mountains—little or no wind. Snow began at 10 p. m., very fine, not granular or crystalline. Snow continued during night, wind E. or S. E., very light. Appearance of snow the same in morning as the night before." As this fall occurred after the evening observation, it is tabulated under the date of the 23d.

Jan. 23. It will be seen that until this date, the snow crystals had afforded their observer but little satisfaction. With the continuance of the snowfall of the 22d-23d, an improvement seems to have occurred. "During the forenoon till 10 o'clock a little fine snow was flying. At this time a S. E. wind rose, bringing quite a flurry of snow. The flakes were small, not over a thirty-second of an inch, and of great variety. Doublets were abundant, some with both ends of the same size, some of different sizes. A few had a disc in the middle of the bar. Some bars had no ends; and one flake consisted of (eight?) radiating tubes or bars, for under the microscope the bars were seen to be hollow hexagonal tubes."

This snowfall inaugurated the cold week, which formed the first touch of cold weather since New Year. There was another small fall during the night of the 24th-25th, and a still less important one in the forenoon of the 29th. The week was characterized by violent changes in the general weather map, a cyclone of 29.5 over Utah and Colorado, on the morning of the 26th, giving place by the 27th to a high barometer (30.7) inches centrally located—near Kansas City—and dominating the entire area of the U. S. There is little wonder, therefore, that the minimum barometer and highest wind velocity occurred at our station during this period; though it is perhaps rather remarkable that the temperature remained persistently low for the entire seven days. It was a week of real winter, yet despite the number of small snowfalls in its course, there was little snow left on the ground when the temperature at last took an upward turn, and by the end of the month there was practically none.

THE ALLIANCE BETWEEN JAPAN AND GREAT BRITAIN

By Associated Press.

London, Feb. 13.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Mail asserts that the new alliance between Japan and Great Britain is a direct outcome of the tour of the Japanese statesman, Marquis Ito.

At St. Petersburg, cables the correspondent, Marquis Ito sounded the possibility of an agreement and certain rather exacting bases in the suggested understanding were submitted to him. The marquis then proceeded to London and frankly told the British government of Russia's proposals and intimated that if Great Britain was disinclined to enter upon the agreement Japan would fall back on the Russian offer. These negotiations resulted in the arrangement of a rough outline of the agreement and Marquis Ito notified Russia of his inability to accept her proposals. Baron Hayashi, Japanese minister at London, continues the correspondent, then took the matter up and brought the negotiations to a successful conclusion. There is no doubt that the alliance is very popular in Japan and quotations on the stock market have advanced.

An influential Japanese regards the alliance as a guarantee of peace and as a check upon Russian ambition. The Japanese mind is greatly impressed by the strength and determination Great Britain has displayed in South Africa and the best men of Japan have hoped that the visits of Marquis Ito would result in a closer union with Great Britain and with Russia also.

A representative of the Daily Mail in the lobbies of parliament has gathered the opinions of many members of the house of commons regarding the alliance. The representative believes that a friendly understanding with China was obtained before the treaty was concluded and that Lord Rosebery is very much pleased with the truth. On the whole, says the representative of the Daily Mail, the members of the house of commons approve this step heartily but there are many discordant voices on the Liberal side of the house. Sir Charles Dilke, Radical, John Burns, Socialist, and others consider the policy of isolation "to be best. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the opposition leader in the house, and Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Liberal, are also dubious of the advantages of the alliance while the other Liberals look with apprehension upon what they regard as certain to come, namely a conflict between Japan and Russia.

Among the government members of the house and the Conservatives generally greatest satisfaction with the alliance is expressed and especially in view of the fact that it gives Great Britain command of the Japanese fleet.

COLORADO CITY NEWS

COLORADO CITY, COLO., FEBRUARY 13, 1904. OFFICE, R. T. GODFREY'S DRUG STORE, 506 COLORADO AVENUE.

Cow Has Caused Much Litigation

The case of the people versus Hayes with Mrs. Rosenthal as complaining witness was tried yesterday in Judge Faulkner's court, and the decision of the court will be given next Saturday. This case has had quite a history. It being originally tried under Judge McCleland in Colorado Springs. From this court it was taken to Judge Ruby's court on change of venue, and then again transferred to Judge Faulkner for trial.

The trial here started at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and the rest of the day was spent in accumulating evidence. The history of the case starts three years ago when, it is claimed a cow was lost by Mrs. Rosenthal, who resides in the Springs. This cow was the joint property of Mrs. Rosenthal and a man known as "Pick-handle Jack," and the delay of the case has been due to the fact that it has been impossible to secure a deposition from him, as his whereabouts are not known.

A short time ago Mrs. Rosenthal found what she declares to be her cow in a herd of cattle belonging to Mrs. Hayes, which had been purchased from Mr. Schoonmaker some time before. Mrs. Rosenthal replevined the cow which she claimed as her property.

About 30 witnesses were examined yesterday. The testimony is all in, and the verdict of the court will be made known at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

SAYS HE SURVIVED CUSTER MASSACRE

An interesting character is in this city in the person of Frank Welch, known as "Cowboy Sam" Welch, who, it is said, is a survivor of the famous Custer massacre. He claims to have carried out the last message sent from Custer to Fort Fettermen, Wyoming. Mr. Welch has the added distinction of being the first white boy born in Fremont county, Iowa. He will be in the city during the week, and he can recite many interesting incidents in the life of an Indian fighter.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

MRS. CLARK DEAD—R. F. Clark cashier of the Citizens State bank yesterday received the sad news of the death of his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Clark, at her home in Clarksdale, Mo. Mrs. Clark had been ill for some time with a complication of heart disease and rheumatism, and her death, while a great blow to Mr. Clark, was not entirely unexpected by him. On account of the funeral of Mrs. Clark occurring today the Citizens State bank will be closed during the entire afternoon.

SIGNED AGREEMENT—The name of Mr. C. D. Taylor has been added to the "fair" list published by the local clerks union, he having signed the agreement Tuesday.

SURPRISE PARTY — The Misses Templeton, Mrs. A. R. Huff and Mrs. J. S. Arthur, all sisters of Mrs. C. L. Smith gave her a surprise party at her home in West Colorado Springs last Saturday afternoon.

MRS. NICHOLS DEAD—Mrs. I. S. Nichols, wife of the Rio Grande agent at Colorado City, died at 11:15 o'clock last night of pneumonia. She was 38 years old. The funeral arrangements will be made today. Services will probably be held tomorrow.

"Here are the names of only 34 women, chosen almost at random, whose precious stones and jewelry are valued at $22,250,000. It can easily be shown that the figures are not unreasonable. The average annual importation of precious stones into the United States has for a long time been about $15,000,000. Thus during only the past ten years we have received 150,000,000 in gems. Mr. Leopold Stern, the diamond importer, informed me that of this amount one-half is held by dealers throughout the country and that of the remainder fully two-thirds have been sold to families and individuals in New York. This means that in the past ten years New Yorkers have bought 250,000,000 worth of precious stones, this sum not including the cost of their setting. Mr. George F. Kunz, the gem expert of the Tiffany company, says that in the entire country the diamonds alone are valued at $500,000,000, and that of this amount 170,000,000 worth are owned in New York."—(Frank S. Excursion to St. Louis They Will be Given Free Admissions to the World's Fair.

St. Louis, Feb. 10.—The superintendent of the Pilgrim Congregational church Sunday school in this city has hit upon a novel plan of merit certificates for the children of that school. For attendance, punctuality, deportment and for excellence in bible lessons there will be given each month certificates entitling the holders to tickets of admission to the World's fair in 1904. The certificate is handsomely printed on a sheet the size of a bank note, with the portrait of Thomas Jefferson engraved on it. It is to be redeemed as soon as the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company places World's fair tickets on sale.

JEWELS.

Five Hundred Millions of Diamonds in the United States.

"The complete splendor of such jewels as those stolen from the Burdens is revealed only on the rare occasions of fancy dress balls. These occur once in a decade or so; indeed, there have been but two that will hold for all time a place in New York's social history—that given in 1883, at her residence at Fifty-second street and Fifth avenue, by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, now Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, and the one given by Mrs. Bradley-Martin 14 years later at the Waldorf. The latter gorgeous and spectacular function was so denounced from the pulpit for its display of riches and extravagance—several clerical gentlemen even terming it an incentive to anarchy—that probably it will be many a day before we shall again have the four hundred arrayed in such purple and fine linen.

"Fine linen, did I say? Why, the Field of the Cloth of Gold, arranged by that pauper, Francis the First, should be stricken in shame from the annals of France. On such occasions as these many women, viewed from the front, appear to be solidly armored in diamonds or pearls; others, as Joan of Arc, are clothed with cuirass, helmet and gauntlets of solid silver; still others, at a loss for novelty, jingle with coverings of gold coins; heavy bands of gold wind around waists and wrists and twine about bare arms from wrist to shoulder; jeweled lyre birds, pheasants and peacocks gleam gorgeously in many coiffures; gowns are embroidered almost to the hips with a dazzling glitter of all known precious stones; giant girdles, and great ropes of diamonds and priceless pearls are tossed about in the movement of the dance; diamonds and pearls glittering everywhere, at throat, on the buckles of dainty shoes, covering sleeves in a perfect network, tipping the thousand-stringed fringe of a scarf; while a hundred women wear, not unbecomingly, crowns of diamonds that only one European empress might not envy—$20,000,000 in precious stones brought together on a single evening to make brilliant the beauty of some queens of American society.

"Do I think the amount exaggerated? Mrs. John Jacob Aster, third, frequently wore $500,000 worth of jewels at an ordinary reception, also Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt fully 250,000 at a mere garden party. Pearl necklaces alone worth from $50,000 to $100,000 are not uncommon, one that cost $320,000 being occasionally seen, and more than one woman has $1,000,000 in gems from which to choose. Let me tabulate the value of the jewelry owned by comparatively a small number of New York's society women:

Mrs. William Astor	$1,500,000
Mrs. John Jacob Astor	1,000,000
Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr.	1,000,000

A Question of International Etiquette

Republics were always given to making more of monarchies than monarchies of republics, and our representation by a special embassy at the coronation of King Edward VII is not out of the order of history. But several questions concerning the event will occur to the thoughtful observer. Now that we have become a world-power, and are no longer a hermit-crab in the international sea, is it not time that we should expect an exchange of such civilities. If Mr. Roosevelt should be re-elected, or some other citizen should be chosen our next president, will it not be fit for England to send a special embassy, with a complete outfit of admirals and generals to represent her at his inauguration? If not, why not? Is it not time, too, that republics should begin making something of one another? It is now rather late for us to send a special embassy to honor the inauguration of President Loubet of France, but there is a President of Switzerland elected every year, whose inauguration we might properly recognize in some such way, and there are presidents more or less convulsively installed throughout Spanish and Portuguese America who have logically the same right to a little attention from us that the king of Great Britain has. It will not do to answer that they are unimportant powers; for all nations are equal before international equity and courtesy, if not international law. It might be more reasonably urged that presidents are chosen so often that a perpetual embassy could alone keep up with their inaugurations; but this is an objection that the monarchies could apply to our own case, with the same risk of wounding our self-national sensibilities. Besides, kings being mortal—they really are mortal, little as we are coming to think it—they may die after their coronation as rapidly as presidents are elected. Apparently this matter has not been fully thought out yet.—(Harper's Weekly.

Fashionable Predictions for the Coming Season

SHIRT WAISTS
Miss Fashion will rule in an element of style and neatness this spring. The Shirt Waist season will see an early opening this year. A long siege of heavy waists will hasten the desire to wear the lighter weight apparel. Our advance showing is here. See them.

A word or two of the strongest fashion tendencies in fabrics. Despite the fact, in both woolen and wash goods, there is no adherence to any set form of design, nearly every shade in our magnificent spring assortment possesses a character of beauty all its own.

SPRING GINGHAMS
Selling styles are dependent to a great extent upon millinery modes. Hence the selling buyer must be in touch with all new millinery styles. With this in mind, our spring buyer has chosen a line for spring remarkably complete. New embroidered designs in chiffon and net.

SHIRT GRENADINES
Probably the best dress in your new wardrobe will be the Grenadine. The many new corded and lace effects will prove a most delightful vision to admirers of stylish Grenadines. Black, black and white, and colored patterns profusely shown, also the silk and wool effects.

Silk goods, dimities and ginghams will be more popular than ever, the mercerized and silk effects will receive their share, also Batiste and Swisses, fresh colors will be favored.

In woolen and silk goods the Grenadines and Poulards will be more popular.

NEW MOHAIRS, SILKS AND DRESS GOODS
The styles are so numerous and tasty that the impulse to possess will appeal at once. All patterns come in dress lengths so the possibility of duplication is avoided.

NEW WOOLEN SUITS
New textures are so many that it is impossible to predict what will be most favored. The newest colors shown in Vellings, Satistes, Ottras, Albatrosses, Henriettas, Etamines, Clairvaux, Granites, Worsteds, Whipcords, Serges, Cheviots, Canvas Etamines, Barathea, Satin Fillos, Satin Berbers, Poplins, Granite Beiges, Tailor Suitings, etc.
